TENURE-TRACK ASSISTANT PROFESSOR OF PSYCHOLOGY

Franklin College invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Psychology position to begin August 2023. Located just 25 minutes from culturally rich downtown Indianapolis, Franklin College is a private, four-year liberal arts college.

The ideal candidate will possess a background in either Cognitive or Social Psychology. We are specifically interested in applications from candidates whose intellectual and pedagogical expertise or experience engages power, privilege, and social justice. The candidate will be capable of and enthusiastic about teaching a variety of undergraduate courses. Potential courses include Social Psychology, Cognitive Psychology, Psychology of Diversity, Statistics, Research Methods, and General Psychology. Additionally, the candidate will help create meaningful student internship opportunities and supervise undergraduate research.

This position is part of a college-wide cluster of searches designed to increase curricular coverage of areas related to diversity and inclusion, as well as to promote inclusive teaching strategies across the campus. Demonstrated commitment to teaching and learning, openness to innovation, and a genuine dedication to working with undergraduates in a small, collegial liberal arts setting is strongly preferred. Willingness to participate in broad service to the college, such as advising, committee work, and professional development, is required. Ph.D. preferred, ABD (with degree expected by August 2023) considered. Benefits package includes health, dental and vision insurance, life and disability insurance, retirement plan, EAP, and tuition benefits for employee and their family.

Review of applications will begin immediately, and those received by October 14, 2022 will receive full consideration. Applicants should submit their materials via email including a letter of application, curriculum vita, official transcripts (undergraduate and graduate), three current references, and a statement of teaching philosophy to the address below. Additionally, applicants should submit a one-page diversity statement that provides specific examples of past and future contributions that will advance the College’s and department’s commitment to equity and inclusion in the areas of teaching, mentoring, and/or scholarship via the application link Franklin College Faculty Application. Teaching evaluations and recommendation letters will be requested later in the selection process.
