

Lecturer of Earth Science

Franklin College invites applications for a part-time appointment for our Lecturer of Earth Science, teaching 100-level courses in Earth Science to begin January, 2024. Franklin College provides a strong, active, and tailored liberal arts education through small class sizes and intentional relationships between students and their faculty mentors. Located about 20 miles from downtown Indianapolis, Franklin College supports purposeful and practical academic experiences in and out of the classroom that leverage this location as students pursue personal, intellectual and professional growth. Please see www.FranklinCollege.edu for more details.

The successful candidate will be expected to deliver lectures and labs for the hands-on style Earth Science course during the spring semester for a total of 2.5 lecturer hours and two 2-hour labs per week. This position will conduct office hours to assist major and non-majoring students with questions or issues (2 hours per week). Candidates with successful teaching experience and a willingness to work in a private small liberal arts setting will receive highest priority. Candidates who can demonstrate a dedication to teaching and the ability to contribute in meaningful ways to the College's continuing commitment to diversity will also be given preference. Bachelor's degree in Geology, Earth Science, Environmental Science or a related field required. Classes will be in-person.

Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled.

Evaluation of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled. Applicants should submit a complete application (electronic submissions preferred, MS Word or PDF) including a letter of interest, recent teaching evaluations, and a curriculum vita that includes a list of references via the application link – https://franklincollege-ubsru.formstack.com/forms/staff_application or at <https://franklincollege.edu/about-fc/human-resources/employment-opportunities/>
